Dear Mr Callan:

As we discussed, our team considered the possibility of continued orthodontia and maxillomandibular advancement for the treatment of Obstructive Sleep Apnea and the relief of your described symptoms, including seizure-disorder. The team took into consideration previously discussed issues: the clinical symptoms, clinical findings (varied RDIs and low AHIs) and overall status of your case are not consistent. In addition, whether or not this type of surgery can have any positive impact on your specific complaints is questionable.

Furthermore, we are concerned that your expectations and desired treatment outcome may not be consistent with our proposed treatment plan(s) and expected outcomes. Finally, you have demonstrated a lack of trust in us as a team by explicitly rejecting treatment plans with the orthodontist, relaying information to the surgeon but not remembering the source and questioning medically-related statements and pressuring the surgeon to make orthodontic evaluations.

For these reasons, this team concluded that we could not perform the surgery. As previously stated by me, I feel a second opinion is warranted in your case. The team feels you should seek this second opinion from another institution such as Tufts University Oral and Maxillofacial Surgery Department or Boston University Oral and Maxillofacial Surgery Department. We also urge you to continue to seek evaluations and treatment by those who have the expertise in dealing with Sleep Apnea and Seizure-disorders.

Please do not hesitate to contact Monique Riebe to forward any or all of your records to another facility of your choice. We hope you are able to find a satisfactory treatment to achieve your goals.

Sincerely,

Maria J. Troulis, DDS
